MASTERCLASS

What can the Heart Foundation do for you?
How to promote your research: community and media

Following on from the 2016 workshop, this will be a more in-depth workshop about the Heart Foundation’s media and communication skills that can assist researchers to promote their work.

Date: Friday 24 November 2017
Venue: Intersect, 167 Flinders Street, Adelaide
Time: 10.30am – 2.30pm
Speakers: Karen Kissane, Heart Foundation National Media & Strategic Communications Manager

Speaker bio:

Karen Kissane is an award-winning journalist and author. Karen has an interest in narrative journalism, powerful human stories, legal, health and education systems, human rights and cross-cultural and social justice issues and is now working with the Heart Foundation as National Media and Strategic Communications Manager.

Previously Karen was posted to London as Europe correspondent for two Australian broadsheets, The Age, Melbourne, and the Sydney Morning Herald. In Australia, her journalism has won awards including Victorian Legal Reporter of the Year (2009), two United Nations Association of Australia Media Peace Prizes (2005), the Australian Human Rights Print Media Award (2001) and the Australian Council of Deans of Education Award (2001). In 2010, she was shortlisted for Graham Perkin Australian Journalist of the Year for her Black Saturday work.

For more information, contact Carolyn Astley on 08 8224 2839 or Carolyn.astley@heartfoundation.org.au